Families of the Disappeared hold Stormont ceremony

Families of the Disappeared have held a ceremony at Stormont in Northern Ireland to remember those abducted by terrorists whose bodies have not yet been recovered.

Today was chosen for the commemoration because it is All Souls` Day when the dead are traditionally remembered.

Father Aidan Troy led a short prayer before the group walked to Parliament buildings.

A wreath was laid on the steps of Parliament Buildings by the widow of Charlie Armstrong who disappeared in 1981.

The families say today`s event helps keep the unresolved issue in people`s minds.
