DUP NEWSLatest News:*BOMBER FARRELL HARDLY AN EXAMPLE TO BE CELEBRATING

North Belfast DUP Assembly Member Nelson McCausland MLA has responded to the news that Sinn Fein Assembly Member Jennifer McCann has tried to book the Long Gallery in Stormont for an event celebrating the life of IRA bomber Mairead Farrell. Speaking today Nelson McCausland said:

"Mairead Farrell was a Provisional IRA bomber who was intercepted by the forces of law and order on her way to kill innocent people in Gibraltar. For Jennifer McCann to claim that an event celebrating the life of such a criminal has anything to do with International Women's Day is quite frankly ludicrous. People like Farrell and her fellow terrorists in the IRA killed hundreds of innocent women throughout the course of their campaign of terror. To hold such a person up as a role model demonstrates some of the warped thinking which exists inside Sinn Fein. The DUP will oppose this event taking place. As the home of our local assembly, Stormont is a shared public space. Celebrations of the lives of murderous IRA thugs are incompatible with that reality."
