WILSON CONCERNED AT POLICE OMBUDSMANS FOCUS

DUP East Antrim MLA Sammy Wilson has asked the Northern Ireland Security Minister to review the focus of the Police Ombudsman in Northern Ireland. Speaking after Northern Ireland Question Time Mr Wilson said,

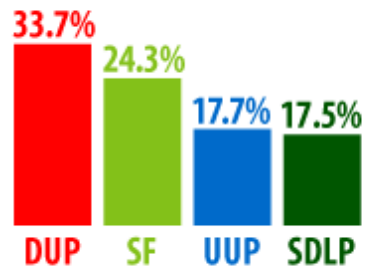

“The Chief Constable has pointed out that 40% of police resources are currently used to service historic enquiries into the police. The new Police Ombudsman has also highlighted that politically motivated historic enquiries into the police by the Ombudsman’s office are affecting political progress in Northern Ireland.

I would call on the Minister to review the legislation which pertains to the Police Ombudsman’s office and remove its ability to dabble in the past and deal only with current complaints.”
