Dear Brian:

I want to thank you again for sharing your time, thoughts and hospitality with me during my recent trip to Northern Ireland. The problems are dramatic and the solutions aren't easy.

I described things as I honestly saw them, and I realize that those descriptions did not please everyone. But I'm sincere in hoping that peace can come to Northern Ireland, and if I can make some small contribution towards finding that peace, I'll strive to make it.

Again, I'm glad we got a chance to meet and I look forward to seeing you again.

Sincerely,

Joseph P. Kennedy II
